Professional Experience

Pressley is an Associate Professor and Academic Program Director at City University of Seattle.

He is passionate about working with graduate students as they grow and develop. With his master's degree in counseling, specifically marriage and family therapy, Pressley understands the student from a systemic perspective. Balancing multiple life roles is both rewarding and challenging, and he is committed to helping students achieve their own personal goals around balance.

Pressley has been teaching in both online and in-person teaching environments for over five years. His interests in boundary management, technology, and group relations are focused on an educational practice that will encourage leaders to set and maintain better boundaries for a more collaborative and safe workplace environment.

From a course design perspective, he wants to create engaging classes that have clear boundaries and exemplify the best practices in both course design and universal design. He also wants them to be fun.
